He has been a CFA charter holder since 2003.

The combination of experience, skill sets, and qualifications discussed above led to the conclusion that each of the nominees should serve as a director of the Company. Specifically, the nominees have gained familiarity with the Company's financial statements and understand both the demands of operating a business and the challenges currently facing the Company, which will make them a valuable resource on the Board of Directors.

Furthermore, the role of an effective director inherently requires certain personal qualities, such as integrity, as well as the ability to comprehend, discuss and critically analyze materials and issues that are presented so that the director may exercise judgment and reach conclusions in fulfilling his duties and fiduciary obligations. The Stockholder believes that the background and expertise of each of the nominees, as set forth above, evidence those abilities and are appropriate to his serving on the Company's Board of Directors.

The Stockholder believes that each of the nominees would be deemed "independent" as that term is defined in Rule 10A-3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), and the NASDAQ Marketplace Rules. The Stockholder also believes that the nominees would each qualify as an "audit committee financial expert," as that term is defined by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Ephraim Fields Proposes Alternate Slate for Command Center Board of Directors

NEW YORK, NY / ACCESSWIRE / October 11, 2017 / Mr. Ephraim Fields of Echo Lake Capital, the beneficial owner of approximately 4.3% of the shares of Command Center Inc. (OTCQB: CCNI), today announced plans to nominate an alternate slate of five directors at CCNI's next annual shareholder meeting. Seven CCNI directors are scheduled to be elected at the shareholder meeting. Mr. Fields had previously nominated an alternate slate of directors in March 2017, but the Board of Directors (the "Board") postponed the shareholder meeting (without providing shareholders an explanation) that had been scheduled for May 2017.

CCNI's stock price is virtually unchanged from where it was four years ago, and Mr. Fields believes it has dramatically underperformed numerous benchmarks, especially considering the tremendous job growth that has occurred in recent years. Mr. Fields, who personally owns more than twice as much stock as any CCNI Board member, believes CCNI's stock price is undervalued and that CCNI is in urgent need of new leadership at the board level to maximize long-term shareholder value. Mr. Fields is concerned that CCNI's Board is not acting in the best interests of shareholders, as demonstrated by the stagnant share price.

Mr. Fields believes his slate of directors has a broad range of highly relevant operational, capital markets and public company experience, as well as a level of credibility and motivation that would be a welcome addition to the Board. Mr. Fields believes his slate will work hard to increase both CCNI's profitability and the multiple at which its stock trades, thereby creating a meaningful benefit to all shareholders. If elected, Mr. Fields' directors intend to examine strategic alternatives for the company, including, without limitation, initiatives to: (i) improve the company's existing operations and morale among its workforce, (ii) grow the company to lever its existing infrastructure, (iii) enhance the company's credibility among the investment community, and (iv) examine the potential sale of the company.

Mr. Fields commented, "Most of CCNI's directors have served on the Board for many years, and I fail to understand how they can justify their performance or their compensation in light of the stagnant share price. As a long-term shareholder, I have watched the Board continue to take (what I consider to be) excessive compensation, not buy much stock personally, approve compensation for senior management that does not appear justified in light of the stagnant share price, and oversee a revolving door of CFOs."

Below are the names, ages and biographies for the five directors that Mr. Fields nominated to CCNI's Board of Directors.
